Billboards Eliminated in Pennsylvania

Eighteen companies have agreed to eliminate all billboard advertising in rural districts of Pennsylvania, the Associated Clubs of Pennsylvania for Roadside Development reports after a campaign of letters to billboard advertisers. The Association claims that 800,000 women members are campaigning to restore roadsides to their natural beauty and states it plans to eliminate billboards and roadside junkyards. A bill introduced in the California legislature by Senator Ed Finkle of Carmel last spring to effect a similar improvement in California scenery was choked in committee.

Three-Man City Council Holds Brief Meeting

Only three members of the city council were present at the meeting Tuesday night. Councilman John V. Murry was at home recovering from an attack of pleurisy and Councilman George Powell was absent on his vacation. City business transacted concerned only minor matters.

The Southern California Gas company reported it had laid 992 feet of pipeline in the half-year to June 30 and offered a check of $2.82 in payment of its franchise fees—15 cents per mile.

A petition signed by a number of Pueblo residents asking the city to level off a playground in that area for the use of youngsters and ball teams was read. Street Superintendent Gascoigne reported that city equipment was in the Pueblo now working over the ball diamond.

New Fire Zone Ordinance
An offer by J. C. Smith of the Torrance Investment company, to provide the materials if the city will continue the sidewalk to the curb at Torrance boulevard and Engracia in front of the new market he is building there and pave in the parkway was accepted.

City Engineer Leonard Young submitted the proposed new fire zone ordinance which includes several changes suggested by the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific. The ordinance which will replace a former fire zone that was repealed when the uniform building code was adopted by the council several weeks ago, creates a "very limited First District No. 1 within the business area," Young said. It was referred to the city ordinance committee.

Local Dairy Makes County Honor Roll

Boonstra Brothers' dairy herd of this city made the honor roll of the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau's cow testing association last month, it was learned this week. Owners of individual cows making 2.70 pounds or more of butterfat on "testing day" were named on the roll. The Boonstras' best producer netted 3.05 pounds of butterfat.

Nudist Camp Problem Solution Told Supervisors

With the subject of proposed county legislation against nudist camps referred to the board of supervisors sitting as a committee of the whole, Supervisor John Anson Ford reported today that he had received a suggestion from a constituent which promised to solve the problem.

The solution offered was that nudist camps be permitted, but that members of only one sex be permitted to use them at a time.

Old Glass Factory Now Being Razed

In 1927. The reason given was that it was unable to meet eastern plant competition.

One of this city's old-time residents who watched the wrecking operations at the plant this week was Al Price of 1919 Andree avenue. A former window glass blower at the local factory, Price learned his craft from Hurlie while the latter operated a similar plant in Toledo, Ohio. When Hurlie opened the Torrance glass factory, he sent for Price to assist him.

Price worked at the plant until 1924 when, along with other glass blowers, he says, he found valueless his 35 years' experience.

Relief Society Has Fine Record

ington said this week. "But many forget us and allow their cast-offs to be taken out of Torrance by other welfare organizations. We need a lot of clothing right now—especially children's things. We have been told many times by needy parents that without the shoes, socks, undergarments, dresses and boys' pants and shirts, their children could not have gone to school."

Food Bills Lower
"During the next few weeks we are expecting calls for children's things so that youngsters of good American families can return to school and not run the risk of embarrassment and ridicule from their playmates because of their ragged dresses, their torn pants. We have never had enough clothing to meet the need here and we never have charged one cent for anything," Mrs. Woodington continued.

In the last three months, more than 500 articles of clothing have been given families by the T. R. S. All recipients were white Americans. The food bills accumulated by the Society and paid by the Torrance Community Service Association—because the Society has no funds of its own—have averaged only between $50 and $80 a month recently. During the height of Depression II, the food claims have run as high as $100 or $200 a month, Mrs. Woodington recalls.

Some may ask: "Why should there be such a local demand for relief when we have the county relief, SRA, WPA and Social Security?"

Aid During Waiting Period
The answer to that is simple: The Torrance Relief society takes care of emergency cases alone. It does not try to compete with other governmental agencies. It extends its helping hand for not more than six weeks to distressed families. It meets welfare needs that arise during the period when families are trying to get on the county, state or Federal relief rolls. This period is usually five or six weeks.

And that is a critical time to many people who have been dogged by misfortune. They are hungry and we give them food. They need clothing and we share our supplies with them," Mrs. Woodington pointed out. "I have also heard many people say here: 'Hungry? We don't have hungry families in Torrance, do we?' I can truthfully say we do—and they are not transients, they are not Mexicans but they are our own American citizens of Torrance."

"We make our own investigations. When we have a call for assistance we look into the matter thoroughly and when the applicants have clearly shown their need, we supply it. The Torrance Community Service Association has given us splendid cooperation in the way of finances to pay for food orders and in cases where we have found it necessary to provide housing for distressed families and individuals.

Prepare for Winter Relief
"But we need more members. The six of us are not enough to cover the field. We could use a permanent central location but we have found, by experience, that when we have located a storeroom in a downtown building we haven't been able to stay there very long because the owner has a chance to rent the space."

"Gifts of clean clothing and shoes in good repair are most welcome any time. We will be

Recreation Centers Will Continue Here

"From all information I have been able to obtain in Los Angeles, we will retain enough workers to keep all three recreation centers here operating," Dale Riley, city recreation director, informed the city council Tuesday night.

Mayor William H. Tolson had reported that residents in the Vista Highlands tract were quite concerned over the possibility that their center, located on Carson street near Greenwood, might be closed down by the W.P.A. next month.

"Those people out there are so interested in maintaining their recreation center that several have told me they would pay toward the expenses of the place to keep it operating," Tolson said. Riley's announcement was received with appreciation by the council.

Gas Field in Suburb
CLEVELAND (U.P.)—A new gas field, already producing gas enough for 38,000 homes, is under development in suburban Highland Heights.

Gladd to call for such things if the donors are unable to bring them to my home at 2013 Arlington avenue. Winter will soon be here and we'll have demands for blankets, comforters and heaters. I wish we could start collecting them right now in order to be prepared," Mrs. Woodington said.
